

Do You Provide Health or Wellness Products or Services?

Today's seniors want to feel and look their best.

They want products and services that will help them live long and healthy lives.

Senior Living's September issue is promoting a special Health and Wellness Section where companies with relevant products or services can place their advertisement for prime exposure to our readers.

Place an ad of a half page or larger in our Health and Wellness Section and Senior Living will give you editorial space of equivalent size at no extra cost.

Product and Services our Readers are looking for:

- supplements and vitamins to improve their health
- exercise equipment and fitness programs to improve their body
- beauty products and services to enhance their looks
- a variety of services to monitor any health related issues

Booking deadline is August 15, 2011.

* Some restrictions may apply. Company products and services advertised within this special advertising section must be relevant to the health and wellness industry.

All submitted editorial must be approved by Senior Living prior to publication.
